ABSTRACT

This bibliography for a course in German phonetics is subdivided as follows: (1) reference works in linguistics (introductions, surveys, and miscellaneous; structural linguistics; transformational-generative linguistics; applied linguistics; and dictionaries and glossaries); (2) phonetics (books, articles, and miscellaneous topics); (3) phonology (general works, structural phonology, and generative phonology); (4) phonetics and phonology in language teaching; (5) phonetics and phonology of German (pronunciation exercises and applied German phonetics; intonation, juncture, and stress in German; phonology of German; miscellaneous topics in phonetics and phonology; German diphthongs and vowels; German consonants; and contrastive studies in phonetics and phonology); (6) phonetics and phonology in the teaching of German; and (7) pronouncing dictionaries of German and Standard German.
